[Will Wizard is stated to have found the "delectable history," of which the following is an extract, among the papers of Linkum Fidelius, supposed to have been written by Ryp Van Dam, formerly governor of New Amsterdam, now New-York; who, if his name has not been handed down to posterity, it is because he was too modest a man to do any thing worthy of being recorded." It will not be necessary to inform our readers that it is intended to represent the introduction of the French dances into New York.—Raleigh Star.

CHAP. CIX.

Of the Chronicles of the renowned and ancient city of Gotham.

How Gotham city conquer'd was,
And how the folk turn'd apes—because.

LINK FID.

ALBEIT much about this time it did fall out, that the thrice renowned and delectable city of Gotham did suffer great discomfiture, and was reduced to perilous extremity, by the invasion and assaults of the Hoppingtots. These are a people inhabiting a far distant country, exceedingly pleasant and fertile—but they being withal egregiously addicted to migration, do thence issue forth in mighty swarms, like the Seythians of old, overrunning divers countries and commonwealths, and committing great devastations wheresoever they do go, by their horrible and dreadful feats and prowesses. They are specially noted for being right valorous in all exercises of the leg; and of them it hath been rightly affirmed that no nation in all Christendom, or elsewhere, can cope with them in the adroit, dexterous and jocund shaking of the heel.

This engaging excellence doth stand unto them a sovereign recommendation, by the which they do insinuate themselves into universal favor and good countenance; and it is a notable fact that, let a Hoppingtot but once introduce a foot into company, and it goeth hardly if he doth not contrive to flourish his whole body in thereafter. The learned Linkum Fidelius in his famous and unheard-of treatise on man, whom he defineth, with exceeding sagacity, to be a corn-cutting, tooth drawing animal, is particularly minute and elaborate in treating of the nation of the Hoppingtots, and betrays a little of the Pythagorean in his theory, inasmuch as he accounteth for their being so wonderfully adroit in pedestrian exercises, by supposing that they did originally acquire this unaccountable and unparalleled aptitude for huge and unmatchable feats of the leg, by having heretofore been condemned for their numerous offences against that harmless race of bipeds—or quadrupeds—(for herein the sage Linkum Fidelius appeareth to doubt and waver exceedingly) the frogs, to animate their bodies for the space of one or two generations. He also giveth it as his opinion that the name of Hoppingtots is manifestly derivative from this transmigration. Be this, however, as it may, the matter (albeit it hath been the subject of controversy among the learned) is but little pertinent to the subject of this history, wherefore shall we treat and consider it as naught.

Now these people being thereto impelled by a superfluity of appetite, and a plentiful deficiency of the wherewithal to satisfy the same, did take thought that the ancient and venerable city of Gotham, was, peradventure, possessed of mighty treasures, and did, moreover, abound with all manner of fish and flesh, and eatables and drinkables, and such like delightsome and wholesome excellencies withal. Whereupon calling a council of the most active heeled warriors, they did resolve forthwith to put forth a mighty array, make themselves masters of the same, and revel in the good things of the land. To this were they hotly stirred up, and wickedly incited by two redoubtable and renowned warriors, hight Parouet and Rigadoon, cycled in such sort, by reason that they were two mighty, valiant, and invincible little men, utterly famous for the victories of the leg which they had, on divers illustrious occasions, right gallantly achieved.

These doughty champions did ambitiously and wickedly inflame the minds of their countrymen, with gorgeous descriptions, in the which they did cunningly set forth the marvellous riches and luxuries of Gotham—where Hoppingtots might have garments for their bodies, shirts to their ruffles, and might riot most merrily every day in the week on beef, pudding, and such like luscious dainties. They (Parouet and Rigadoon) did likewise hold out hopes of an easy conquest; forasmuch as the Gothamites were as yet but little versed in the mystery and science of handling the legs, and being, moreover, like unto that notable bully of antiquity, Achilles, most vulnerable to all attacks on the heel, would doubtless surrender at the very first assault. Whereupon, on the hearing of this inspiring council, the Hoppingtots did set up a prodigious great cry of joy, shook their heels in triumph, and were all impatient to dance on to Gotham and take it by storm.

The cunning Parouet and the arch catiff Rigadoon, knew full well how to profit of this enthusiasm. They forthwith did order every man to arm himself with a certain pestilent little weapon, called a fiddle—to pack up in his knapsack a pair of silk breeches, the like of ruffles, a cocked hat in the form of a half moon, a bundle of cat-gut—and inasmuch as in marching to Gotham, the army might, peradventure, be smitten with a scarcity of provisions, they did account it proper that each man should take especial care to carry with him a bunch of right merchantable onions. Having proclaimed these orders by sound of fiddle, they (Parouet and Rigadoon) did accordingly put their army behind them, and striking up the right jolly and sprightly tune of Ca Ira, away they all capered towards the devoted city of Gotham, with a most horrible and appalling chattering of voices.

Of their first appearance before the beleaguered town, and of the various difficulties which did encounter them in their march, this history saith not, being that other matters of more weighty import require to be written. When that the army of the Hoppingtots did peregrinate within sight of Gotham, and the people of the city did behold the villainous and hitherto unseen capers and Grimaces, which they did make, a most horrid panic was stirred up among the citizens; and the sages of the town fell into great despondency and tribulation, as supposing that these invaders were of the race of the Jig-hees, who did make men into baboons, when they achieved a conquest over them. The sages, therefore, called upon all the dancing men and dancing women, and exhorted them with great vehemency of speech, to make heel against the invaders, and to put themselves upon such a gallant defence, such glorious array, and such sturdy evolution, elevation, and transposition of the foot as might incontinently inpester the legs of the Hoppingtots, and produce their complete discomfiture. But so it did happen by great mischance, that divers light-heeled youth of Gotham (more especially those who are descended from three wise men so renowned of yore, for having most venturesomely voyaged over sea in a bowl) were from time to time captured and inveigled into the camp of the enemy; where being foolishly cajoled and treated for a season with outlandish disports and pleasantries, they were sent back to their friends, entirely changed, degenerated, and turned topsy-turvy; inasmuch that they thought thenceforth of nothing but their heels, always essaying to thrust them into the most manifest point of view—and, in a word, as might truly be affirmed, did forever after walk upon their heads, outright.

And the Hoppingtots did, day by day, and at late hours of the night, wax more and more urgent in this their investment of the city. At one time they would, in goodly procession, make an open assault by sound of fiddle, in a tremendous contradiction—and anon they would advance by little detachments and manœuvre to take the town by figuring in cotillions. But truly their most cunning and devilish craft and subtlety was made manifest in their strenuous and pestilent dance called the Waltz.—This, in good truth, was a potent auxiliary, for by it were the heads of the simple Gothamites most villainously turned, their wits sent a wool-gathering, and themselves on the point of surrendering at discretion, even unto the very arms of their invading foemen.

At length the fortifications of the town began to give manifest symptoms of decay, inasmuch as the breast-work of decency was considerably broken down, and the curtain works of propriety blown up. When that the cunning catiff Parouet, beheld the ticklish and jeopardized state of the city—'Now by my leg,' quoth he—(he always swore by his leg, being that it was an exceeding goodly leg) 'Now by my leg quoth he, but this is no great matter of recreation—I will show these people a pretty, strange and new way forsooth, presently, and will shake the dust of my pumps upon this most obstinate and uncivilized town.' Whereupon he ordered and did command his warriors, one and all, that they should put themselves in readiness, and prepare to carry the town by a GRAND BALL. They, in no wise to be daunted, do forthwith, at the word, equip themselves for the assault, and in good faith, truly, it was a gracious and glorious sight, a most triumphant and incomparable spectacle to behold them gallantly arrayed in glossy and shining silk breeches, tied with abundance of ribbon; with silken hose of the gorgeous color of the salmon, right goodly Morocco pumps, decorated with clasps or buckles of a most cunning and secret contrivance, inasmuch as they did of themselves grapple to the shoe without any aid of fluke or tongue, marvellously ensembling witchcraft and necromancy. They had withal, exuberant chitterlings which puffed out at the neck and bosom, after a most jolly fashion, like unto the beard of an ancient he-turkey—and cocked hats, the which they did carry not on their heads after the fashion of the Gothamites, but under their arms, as a roasted fowl his gizzard.

Thus being equipped and marshalled, they do attack, assault, batter and belabor the town with might and main—most gallantly displaying the vigor of their legs, and shaking their heels at it most emphatically. And the manner of their attack was in this sort—first, they did thunder and gallop forward in a contre temps—and anon, displaying column in a cossack dance, a fandango, or a gavot. Whereat the Gothamites, in no wise understanding this unknown system of warfare, marvelled exceedingly, and did open their mouths incontinently, the full distance of a bow shot (meaning a cross bow) in sore dismay and apprehension. Whereupon, saith Rigadoon, flourishing his left leg with great expression of valour, and most magnificent carriage—'my copesmates, for what wait we here—are not the women already won to our favor—do not their women and young damsels wave to us from the walls in such sort that albeit there is some show of defence, yet it is manifestly converted unto our interests?' so saying, he made no more ado, but leaping into the air about a flight shot, and crossing his feet six times after the manner of the Hoppingtots, he gave a short partridge run, and with mighty vigor and swiftness did bolt outright over the walls with a somerset. The whole army of Hoppingtots danced in after their valiant chieftain, with an enormous squeaking of fiddles, and a horrid blasting and brattling of horns, inasmuch that the dogs did howl in the streets; so hideously were their ears assailed. The Gothamites made some semblance of defence, but their women having all been won over into the interest of the enemy, they were shortly reduced to make most abject submission, and delivered over to the coercion of certain professors of the Hoppingtots, who did put them under most ignominious durance, for the space of a long time, until they had learned to turn out their toes, and flourish their legs after the true manner of their conquerors. And thus, after the manner I have related, was the mighty and puissant city of Gotham circumvented, and taken by a coup de pied, or as it may be rendered, by force of legs.

The conquerors showed no mercy, but put all ages, sexes, and conditions, to the fiddle and the dance, and, in a word, compelled and enforced them to become absolute Hoppingtots. "Habit," as the ingenious Linkum Fidelius, profoundly affirmeth, "is second nature." And this original and invincible observation, hath been most aptly proved and illustrated, by the example of the Gothamites, ever since this disastrous and unlucky mischance. In process of time they have waxed to be most flagrant, outrageous, and abandoned dancers; they do ponder on nought but how to gallantize it at balls, routs, and fandangoes, inasmuch that the like was and in no time or place ever observed before. They do, moreover, pitifully devote their nights to the jollification of the legs, and their days forsooth, to the instruction and edification of the heel. And to conclude, their young folk, who whilom did bestow a modicum of leisure upon the improvement of the head, have of late utterly abandoned this hopeless task, and have quietly, as it were, settled themselves down into mere machines, wound up by a tune, and set in motion by a fiddlestick!—[Sal. Mag.]

The subscriber respectfully informs the Ladies and Gentlemen of Alexandria, that on the first of May (being the Anniversary of the Tutelar Saint of America) a TEA PARTY will be provided by him at his Hotel, to such as may please to honor him with their presence.

BAYONNE, February 2.

Within these few days 15,000 Spanish prisoners of war have passed through this town.

In a letter from St. Andero, it is stated that there are no longer any bodies of insurgents to be found collected on the mountains of Asturias.

AUGSBURG, February 14.

The last letters from Bucharest have occasioned an apprehension that the negotiations between Russia and Turkey are entirely broken. The English intrigues at Constantinople have, it is said, penetrated even into the Divan, and the congress of peace, which was to be held at Passi, will not take place. It appears, certain that the Russian troops are reinforcing themselves in Wallachia. There have lately arrived there great quantities of ammunition, and enormous artillery. The Russians have raised corps composed of Wallachians. We should not be surprised to see them attempt the passage of the Danube.

The Bavarian officers have received orders to join their colors. It is said, a camp is to be formed on the banks of the Inn. We expect the entrance of several divisions of the French army into our territory. It is said that general Oudinot's corps is about to repair though Lower Swabia and Franconia, to the banks of the Lech.

HAMBURG, February 10.

Letters from Stockholm, came directly by sea, announce, that the senate on one side, and the chamber of commerce on the other, have made strong remonstrances to the king, on the disastrous state into which the continuance of the war cannot but plunge Sweden. A general famine is feared, in the northern provinces especially, which received all their grain from Finland.

BERLIN, Feb. 7.

Our new council of state labours without ceasing in the re-establishment of the finances. The loan of a million of dollars lately opened, is the first result of its operations. But a more important project is under deliberation: this is, to transfer to the states the domains of the crown, situated in the electoral marches. This operation deserves to be realised, and may be considered as an efficacious mean of attaining the end desired. The king transfers to the states these domains, under certain restrictions. The forests will not be included but will remain to his majesty; also the mills and pecuniary rents will remain, and be otherwise disposed of. The domains are to be sold to the state for 12,000,000 of crowns of the empire; but the king shall have the power of purchasing them again; and that they may not sink in value, they are to be administered by the states conjointly with a royal commission.

MADRID, January 23.

The public entry of the king our sovereign into this city, was announced yesterday, the 22d, at the break of day, by a salute of a hundred cannon.

His majesty, entering by the gate of Atocha, traversed the Prado, proceeded through the street of Alcalá, the gate of the Sun, the street of Las Carretas, of Atocha, and of Toledo, to the church of St. Isidore. The crowd was immense throughout, and manifested its joy by continued acclamations.

The Suffragan bishop addressed his Majesty in an excellent discourse, worthy of his character, and proper for the day, the place and the event.

His Majesty spoke in these words:

"Before rendering thanks to the Supreme Arbiter of destinies, for my return to the capital of this kingdom entrusted to my care, I wish to reply to the affectionate reception of its inhabitants, by declaring in secret thoughts in the presence of the living God, who has just received your oath of fidelity to my person.

"I protest then, before God, who knows the hearts of all, that it is my duty and conscience only which induces me to mount the throne, and not my own private inclination. I am willing to sacrifice my own happiness, because I think you have need of me for the establishment of yours.

"The unity of our holy religion, the independence of the monarchy, the integrity of its territory, and the liberty of its citizens, are the conditions of the oath which I have taken in receiving the crown. I will not be disgraced upon my head; and as I have no doubt, the desires of the people support the efforts of its king, I shall

LONDON, March 9. — The accounts from Spain are of a very exciting nature. The Spanish ambassador received dispatches from Seville yesterday, dated the eighteenth of last month. The Supreme Junta had received dispatches from the heroic Palafox, stating that Saragossa not only held out with unabated firmness, but had obtained great advantages over the French. The women of that place, it seems, had by an ingenious device, been chiefly instrumental in obtaining these advantages, having appeared before the walls as if desperate with distress and in- flicting the enemy to put an end to their suf- fering by a decisive attack on the town. A large body of the French, on the 17th Ja- nuary, were induced, by this stratagem, to pour into the town, where the patriots were ready to receive them, and destroyed a great number. Many of those intrepid fe- males fell in the conflict. It is said Cuesta and the duke del Infantado had united their forces, and were marching for Toledo with 40,000 men.

Extract of a letter from Malaga, Jan. 30. — "The news we have this day is of a fa- vorable nature; Cuesta has cut off 4000 men near Estramadura, and Palafox 10,000 before Saragossa. It would appear that the swelling of the Ebro had carried away their bridge, and that those 10,000 men were prevented from joining the rest of the ar- my. Palafox marched out with 20,000, and drove into the river those he could not de- stroy; it is said not a man has escaped."

The British Packet sailed the 24th inst. for Falmouth. Mr. Nathaniel G. Ingram, jun. who is a passenger in her, is the bearer of dispatches from the government of the United States to the American minister at the court of G. Britain.

We understand that the money in dis- pute between the United States and the state of Pennsylvania, in Olmsteads case, was on the 26th inst. paid by the state.

Captain Spaulding, arrived at Boston, on Friday last, in 7 days from Halifax, informs that he spoke, 12 leagues from Halifax, 19 sail of transports, with troops from Marti- nique, bound in. (It will be recollected, that some time since this fleet was spoken off St. Kitts, bound to St. Martins, which place they intended to capture, and then proceed to Ha- lifax.)

The Little Belt, in 25 days from Ports- mouth, England, with dispatches, had arriv- ed at Halifax. N. Y. Gazette.

The Federal Ticket will have a net major- ity of from 7 to 800 through the State. The House of Representatives will stand 46 Fe- deralists, 26 Democrats. The Senate eight Federalists, 2 Democrats. Heaven be prais- ed. New York R. I. paper.

The prospect of a renewal of intercourse between this country and G. Britain has animated all classes of our fellow citizens with a degree of joy bordering upon enthu- siasm. In this city yesterday the happy event was celebrated by the ringing of bells; a federal salute from the forts, and frigate Constitution, at sunrise, noon, and sunset; public meetings of the two great parties; and in the evening by illuminations. [New York paper.]

The late occurrences that have taken place between the British and our present chief magistrate, have produced a new era in the politics of our country. It must be a pleasing circumstance to every independent American who will think for himself, that our foreign relations are likely to be simpli- fied and brought to a point, about which we can reason with more satisfaction as to pro- bable results, than we have been able to do at any period of a mysterious administration of eight years. From the difficulties in which we some how got involved, either arising out of European politics, or from a want of decision in our councils, we took a stand that was subversive of industry, com- mercial enterprise, and internal peace. From the disposition that has been disco- vered by the president to close with the pro- positions made by the British government, for an adjustment of our differences, it ap- pears as if a hope might be entertained that our government will again be administered with impartiality, and that we may possi- bly once more see something like a return of the days of a Washington. [U. S. Gaz.]

Extract of a letter to the editor of the Free- man's Journal, dated N. Orleans, March 25.

"I will occasionally furnish you with in- teresting articles relating to this, and the Mississippi territory, if such will be agreeable. The inattention of government and the press, with regard to this country, has been the cause of Claiborne's being so long continu- ed our governor. If his conduct was fairly discussed in an independent paper, in any of the states, congress would become ashamed of his conduct, and compel the president to remove him. But it is a misfortune, that no paper in the union has noticed our grie- vances—nothing can be republished but ful- some adulation of the powers that be. How are the few true Americans that are amongst us to do any good, unless they are aided by their friends in the states? Are they able to remove prejudice, and correct evils which they suffer, when their representations are not credited at the seat of government? When whatever is said by the governor is orthodox, and his denunciation politically damns the denounced? Such is now the fate of every citizen in this country. If a man complains, he is denounced; if he offends a postmaster, his discounts are stopped at bank, his credit ruined, his reputation gone. Such is our deplorable situation at present."

COMMUNICATED FOR THE FREEMAN'S JOURNAL.

Translation of a letter from a Spanish gen- tleman in London, to his friend in this ci- ty, dated LONDON, March 2. — I arrived here from Spain the 10th Jan. The news from Spain has not been very fa- vorable, the French having gained posses- sion of all Gallacia; but hopes are yet en- tertained that the Spaciards will ultimately drive the French out of Spain. Palafox in his native city of Zaragossa, continues to perform wonders. The French themselves say in their bulletins that they have an army of 40,000 men employed against Zaragossa, without being able to make much impres- sion on it. The duke del Infantado and general Cuesta are in the south of Spain with strong armies, and are on the point of re-uniting for the purpose of making a grand attack on the French. I know from a pri- vate source, that something good is ripening in the north.

Austria has broken her friendship with France, in consequence of which the troops at Bayonne destined against Spain, have been ordered to march against Austria. It is said Russia is also on the eve of de- claring war against France, and I sincerely hope they may be able to break the vile chains of this agent of Lucifer.

Yesterday I had the honor to dine in a large company with the two Spanish Am- bassadors from the Supreme Junta, Don Pedro Cevallos and admiral Apodaca. They were extremely well received. We toasted Palafox and Saragossa four times.

SCENERY IN FRANCE.—The follow- ing description of the appearance of the country in France, taken from a letter of an American traveller to his mother, will prob- ably be new to most readers. We pre- sume the description should have been local instead of general.

"A circumstance very unpleasant to a traveller is the straitness and uniformity of the roads in France. I know that it has become exceedingly fashionable in our country to have our new roads as straight as possible, but we shall loose in pleasure all that we gain in distance.

"Nothing can equal the dull, tiresome uni- formity of a French road; we were ex- ceedingly impressed with it, because we had just quitted the charming roads of G. Bri- tain, where taste and profit, good sense and fancy, appear to have an equal share in the arrangement. Meandering through the val- lies, or winding over the hills, clothed on either side with a verdant hedge, art seems only to have come in aid of nature, and the beauty of the scenery makes you forget, or disregard, the few feet of additional road which this natural arrangement obliges you to pass.

"This statement already explains to you in part the reason why travellers in France so generally prefer to ride on from morning till night without alighting. The scenery in general is so uniform, that you very soon get thoroughly fatigued with seeing it, and every other object is absorbed in the single wish of arriving at the great city which is the termination of your journey. In addition to this, there are few or no inns on the road, except in their large towns, where a traveller can find any decent accommoda- tion. Between Paris and Orleans, for ex- ample, there is but one single place where you can lodge; and between Tours and Bordeaux, a distance of nearly three hun- dred miles, there are not more than three places where you can stop with any degree of pleasure.

"The surface of the country in France is vastly less varied and less beautiful than in the New England or middle states. There is not that variety in the cultivation which renders our scenery so pleasing. Particular portions of the country are devoted to wheat, and others to vineyards. In the wheat country you will ride fifty miles without seeing any thing but wheat-fields; and in the wine country you perceive nothing but vineyards. The vineyards are very far from being an ornamental species of culture. When the crop is harvested, the wheat coun- try appears like a vast and dreary desert; and as there are neither fences, walls, or hedges, and a very great scarcity of trees, the eye wanders in vain in search of objects whereon to repose itself. I know of no natural views to which I can compare this part, and it is much the largest part of their scenery, but to the ocean where no land is to be seen; but I think the ocean superior to it in the grandeur of the ideas which it inspires, in the liveliness which its motion affords, and in the beautiful color and varied form of its waves. If you except Normandy, and the banks of one or two of their rivers, you see very little grass. There are none of those verdant lawns & smiling meadows to which we are accustomed, & which covered with herds and flocks form the finest scenery in the world. I have often passed one hundred miles in France, with- out seeing a single domestic animal but the horse. That this species of scenery should be disagreeable to us, is not the effect of prejudice, for we can cite in favor of our opinions, all the poets and painters of every age, and of every nation.

"The flower enamelled mead, the ver- dant lawn, the shady bowler, the lowing herds, seem almost exclusively appropriated to descriptive poetry; and where would have been the reputation of Claude or Pois- sin, if they had confined their landscapes to the cheerless tire-some wheat-fields of France? Let others, then, my dear mother, blazen the beauties of French scenery—my pen, devoted to truth, shall give you the picture as it is, and I will assure you, that with the few exceptions I shall no- tice, the landscape scenery of France, is inferior to that of any country I have seen."

A BALSAMIC CORDIAL.

THIS cordial, so justly celebrated throughout Great Britain and the continent of Europe, for its superior efficacy in the cure of all disorders excited by nervous irritability, as well as in complaints of complete debility, whether arising from irregularities of living, long continued residence in warm climates, immoderate pursuits of excessive pleasures, or that destructive habit of inconsiderate youth which brings on so prematurely the infirmities of old age.

In removing pulmonary affections, asthmas, and all disorders of the lungs, it is the most powerful remedy ever yet found, and the relief it has afforded even in the last stage of consumption, is without a parallel; with regard to its efficacy in this baneful, and unfortunately the prevailing disorder in this country (consumption) its superiority is such as to have copplanted every other medicine.

Those who in advanced life feel the consequences of youthful excess, will find themselves restored to health and strength, and all those melancholy symptoms removed, which are the general effects of such causes.

In short, animated by the uniform success this invaluable cordial has experienced in Europe, the thousands it has renovated, when bending under the pressure of nervous, consumptive or hypochondriacal disorders (many attested proofs of which from eminently distinguished persons in this quarter of the globe, are now in the possession of the proprietor here, some few of which are herein published) have determined the introduction of it into this continent, where its efficacies must soon become so prized as to make it considered a beneficent remedy not to be dispensed with by those who are anxious to preserve or acquire their health.

The chief ingredient of this cordial is a plant whose rare and precious salutary virtues were well known to the Arabians during the 8th and 9th centuries, when that people shone conspicuous over all the nations of the world for their learning and skill in eradicating baneful diseases incident to the human frame, renovating infirmity to vigor, and restoring the sickly to sound and rosy health, and which as known at this time by their descendants, and used and experienced as the most sovereign remedy for decayed constitutions, and every species of nervous disorders. This celebrated restorative plant has also been highly estimated for ages past, amongst the most enlightened nations of Greece, and considered by those wise inhabitants as one of the first of their blessings.

This cordial is also rich and fine in flavor, most grateful to the palate, and the most enlivening to the spirits of any yet offered to the public.

Dr. Tiffot's celebrated Gout and Rheumatic Drops.

(Price, Two Dollars per bottle.)

NOTHING is of more importance than the preservation of health—this common lacep remark however is too often forgotten, whilst we are active and strong—and prevention of pain, which is superior to its cure, is not sufficiently attended to by any description of persons. Among those disorders which require the most early and unremitting efforts to eradicate and overcome, none have a stronger claim upon our notice than the Gout, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Weakness of the Joints, Sprains, Gleet, the Stone and Gravel, the Cramp and every species of Rheumatic Pains from whatever cause they may have originated—and hence every relief which can be administered is too valuable to be forgotten.—Those persons whose avocations peculiarly expose them to colds, &c. cannot be too anxious always to possess immediate aid. Sea-faring persons, travellers, &c. ought constantly to carry with them that medicine which will counteract the unpleasant effects of their perilous duties, and especially those pains to which their situation must expose them. To those who reside in or visit the West-Indies, and their warm climates, they will be found upon trial to convey the most lasting service and will gradually destroy all tendency to disease in the human frame, and preserve health and vigor. Although a great variety of prescriptions have been published to cure the disorders enumerated above, none has yet equalled the GOUT AND RHEUMATIC DROPS of DR. TISSOT, which are celebrated throughout the European continent, and whose unbounded benefits are fully authenticated by certificates already published of gentlemen so well known in America, being of the first consequence in the state of Maryland: General Charles Ridgely, of Hampton; John Gibson, Esq. one of the directors of the Farmers' Bank of Maryland; John Macubbin, Esq. Mrs. Macubbin, his wife; and Mrs. Ryan, of Calton. Ample certificates and affidavits of the beneficial effects of these medicines may be seen by applying as above.

A Runaway.

ON Monday morning last, a young and likely negro man slave, named DICK, left the service of the subscriber, and is now supposed to be lurking in or about the town of Alexandria. He is about 18 or 19 years of age, copper colored, well made, and wears his hair in a queue. He took with him shoemakers' tools, with which he is a tolerable workman, and had on a short jacket made of dark colored twilled Virginia cloth and pantaloons of the same.

As he went off without any sort of provocation that I know of, it is supposed he is harbored at some of the numerous tipping houses in or about the town, and perhaps kept at work to defray his expenses.

I will give Ten Dollars reward for his apprehension and delivery to me, or if he is secured in any jail and notice given to me—and if he is apprehended out of the county of Fairfax or district of Columbia, I will pay Ten additional Dollars.

N. B. The business in future will be carried on by Robert M'Crea and John M'Gill.

One Hundred Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY, from the subscriber, two Slaves, named BILLY and NELLY. Billy is a mulatto man, and sometimes calls himself WILLIAM JORDAN AUGUSTUS—his color nearly as light and approaches that of a white man, his hair is straight and he generally wears it platted and turned up behind with a comb—his visage is remarkably thin and his cheek bones high—he has been brought up in the house and is a very good dining-room servant, is about 3 feet 10 or 11 inches high, very straight built, his constitution is not very strong and he is subject to indisposition—he is about 30 years of age.

NELLY is tall and rather inclined towards corpulency, a tawny color and about forty-five years of age.

They went off together as man and wife, but it is very probable Billy will attempt to pass as a white man and will endeavor to sell Nelly as his slave.

The above reward will be paid for the apprehension and securing of the said Slaves, if taken up on the north side of the river Potomac, and information given thereof to their respective proprietors. A reasonable reward will be given if taken within the state of Virginia, and reasonable charges will be paid if brought home.

George Carter,

Oatlands, near Leesburg, Virginia.
